

Arnon Kiselstein SafePack-Decco ISR General Manager official retirement

Arnon Kiselstein officially retires at the end of November after 44 years with Safepack, Decco Israel operation started in the late '40's and incorporated in 1960.

Under Arnon's 30 years as general manager, Safepack has grown and reached a model of "customer intimacy" and support. The best compliment given by our customers has always been that they felt as if "Arnon was the owner of Safepack", based on the level of attention and service provided.

One of Arnon's last achievements has been the build-up of a deep and orderly transition with Uri Haim, who became the GM in December 2010. Under his new leadership, Safepack is undergoing rapid changes, with the goal of reinforcing its assets and position it to offer more solutions to its customers.

A very special customer appreciation day held on November 16 allowed participants to offer testimonies and celebrate together Arnon's long and fruitful career. On behalf of the whole of Decco worldwide, Francois Girin, President and CEO, had the opportunity to personally thank Arnon for his many contributions and his strong impact on the post-harvest industry over the years.
